

Add whatever punctuation is needed! When you have done that, consider what other types of punctuation you could use to create different effects. Write out the edited paragraphs in your book.

i wiggle around hoping to find the light wanting to see outside of course i've not always been hidden but i chose this juicy home for myself after seeing its stunning red exterior now i think my home has been moved because i felt the earth tremor quite violently so i just need to check everything is alright as i poke my head outside breaking through the crunchy shell of the wall i see a hand and a pair of eyes the eyes widen and the mouth under them screams a worm! well how was i to know anyone would want to eat my home whats the matter he asked i couldn't tell you even if i wanted to i cried tears flowing down my face

you have to, its the only way but i couldn't - i walked away before i gave in jacob was wild child and when the police pulled him over heres what they found in his pocket string a stapler a whiteboard pen and seven gluesticks hed been pilfering the classroom supplied again his parents tried to be shocked but they knew his literally sticky fingers couldnt resist a good bit of stationery i went to the shops which is something i did every monday and bought a bottle of pop a cake and a candle Izzy my one and only friend had flown to a sunny climate to teach young children reading and writing but being her usual kind generous fashion she had left me a card with a voucher